Community Engagement

Teachers, parents and children should feel comfortable contacting the school board. District three needs a board member that has the leadership skills to listen to the needs of the community and voice those needs as an advocate for the children. Christy has the diplomatic skill set needed to champion our district's needs respectfully but assertively. She will lead the charge to bring our school board's focus back on supporting our children's academic success.

History of Involvement

Christy is passionate about the success of our schools. With years of dedication engaging the current school board, she can be counted on to be present. Our children and teachers deserve someone who will treat the board business of setting policy as a serious job and not a free time hobby.

Freedom to Teach

We need to give teachers back freedom in their classrooms. Christy trusts the teachers to know what is best for their students and will push back against excessive high stakes testing from the state and federal government. Christy is confident that there are viable alternatives to explore in order to provide accountability back to the state without taking away large amounts of instruction time from the teachers.

Healthy Growth Planning & Rezoning

The school board should work with local officials to ensure schools are considered in new development approvals. Christy will ensure rezoning efforts take long term city growth plans into consideration. We need a stronger partnership in this area to get ahead of the growth instead of always responding to it.
